write a paragraph long essay about how email can cause stress in our lives

Email has become an integral part of our daily lives, enabling us to communicate quickly and efficiently with others. However, the constant influx of emails can also be a source of stress for many people. The pressure to respond promptly to emails, coupled with the sheer volume of messages received, can be overwhelming. This can lead to feelings of anxiety and frustration, as individuals struggle to keep up with their inbox and manage their time effectively. Additionally, the impersonal nature of email communication can sometimes lead to misunderstandings and misinterpretations, which can further contribute to stress. The constant need to check and respond to emails can also interfere with our ability to focus on other tasks, leading to decreased productivity and increased stress levels. In order to mitigate the negative effects of email on our mental well-being, it is important to set boundaries and prioritize our time. This may involve setting specific times for checking and responding to emails, as well as taking breaks from our devices to engage in activities that help us relax and recharge.

El riesgo de seguir con Google Apps para universidades como la UPC

Cada vez veo más señales que indican que Google tendrá que poner orden en la casa para ser competitivo. Como este [<https://archive.ph/7BYDG>]. Cuando esto suceda, muchos servicios gratuitos o muy económicos simplemente serán discontinuados. No olvidemos que “Google graveyard” crece cada día.

La compra del 49% de OpenAI por parte de Microsoft (quien ya tenía un acuerdo de colaboración previo, cuyos frutos hemos visto con el GITHUB_COPILOT). Si Microsoft integra de forma efectiva las herramientas de OpenAI en sus SAAS como Microsoft Office, muchos “clientes” de Google migrarán hacia sus servicios. Esto incluye Bing (Bing+GPT-4) y Office, como servicios SAAS de pago. Que los usuarios profesionales pagarán con gusto.

Google solo sabe ganar dinero a costa de vender anuncios. Vende SAAS, pero no es su core-business ni forma parte de su cultura. El pobre soporte que ofrecen lo demuestra. ¿alguien en la sala ha conseguido hablar con un humano en un servicio Google? Y un asistente tipo ChatGPT que haga de sustituto de un motor de búsqueda no muestra anuncios, y por tanto no gana dinero en el modelo de negocio actual de Google. ¿Cómo resuelve esto Google?

¿Dónde deja esto la continuidad de Google Apps (drive, classroom, meet, calendar, incluso gmail)? Muy probablemente en los próximos 5 años estas herramientas evolucionarán más que en los últimos 25 años a medida que se integren IA generativas.

now write 3 paragraphs in spanish, bout the song contest ... include a slight irony on the poor performance of spain in the contest, make an off hand to the last time (as for your knowledge) spain ended up on the first place

La edición 67 del Festival de Eurovisión 2023 se celebró en Liverpool, Reino Unido, y destacó por la notable victoria de Suecia. El triunfo se lo llevó la canción "Tattoo", interpretada por Loreen, quien se convirtió en la segunda artista en ganar el certamen dos veces, un logro sólo alcanzado anteriormente por Johnny Logan. Curiosamente, Loreen quedó en segundo lugar en la votación pública, pero gracias a la preferencia del jurado, Suecia pudo celebrar su séptima victoria en el certamen, empatando el récord de Irlanda.

Por otro lado, España continuó su racha de desafortunados resultados en el concurso, quedando nuevamente en una posición baja en la clasificación. Aunque los representantes españoles siempre demuestran un gran entusiasmo y un gran espíritu eurovisivo, su éxito en el festival parece ser tan esquivo como un delicado flamenquín rodando por la ladera de una montaña. Y es que la ironía del Festival de Eurovisión es a veces tan brillante como los trajes de lentejuelas que a menudo adornan su escenario.

Sin embargo, debemos recordar que la última vez que España saboreó la dulce victoria en Eurovisión fue hace décadas, en 1968 y 1969, con las inolvidables actuaciones de Massiel y Salomé. Aquellas victorias parecen lejanas, casi como un eco de una antigua balada de Eurovisión. Pero, ¿quién sabe? Tal vez el próximo año, con un poco de suerte, España pueda finalmente capturar otra vez ese escurridizo trofeo y probar una vez más la gloria del primer puesto.

The Eurovision Song Contest 2023 was so cool! It was the 68th edition of the Eurovision Song Contest, and it took place in Turin, Italy. Italy got to host the contest because Måneskin, an Italian rock band, won the previous year. The contest was held at the PalaOlimpico, a big arena in Turin, and it was organized by the Italian broadcaster RAI. The theme of the contest was "Dare to Dream," which I think is a really awesome and inspiring theme. The contest had two semi-finals on 9 and 11 May, and the grand final was on 13 May. I was so excited to watch all the performances!

There were so many amazing songs and performances in the contest. The artists came from all over Europe and even from Australia. Each country sent their best singers to compete, and they all sang their hearts out. The stage was super cool, with lots of lights and special effects. Some of the performances had dancers, and others had cool props. I loved how each performance was unique and showed the culture of the country. The songs were in different languages, and some of them were really catchy. I couldn't stop singing along!

The winner of the contest was the song "TBA" from the country TBA. I thought it was a really great song, and the performance was amazing. The singer had a beautiful voice, and the song was really emotional. When they announced the winner, everyone was cheering and clapping. I was so happy for the winner, and I can't wait to see what they do next. The Eurovision Song Contest 2023 was so much fun to watch, and I'm already looking forward to the next one. I hope my favorite country wins next time!
